

Mission Statement
Sussex County Chapter - ASD
(November 2008)

The Sussex County Chapter is a part of the Archaeological Society of Delaware (ASD). The chapter exists to support and encourage the promotion of archaeology and historic preservation in Sussex County and the Delmarva region.

The Sussex Country Chapter will:

- serve to enhance bonds among members, sharing varying interests, abilities and educational experiences;
- work in Sussex County to preserve, protect and explore archaeological sites;
- assist other groups, such as historical societies and Native American organizations in their parallel efforts, and to offer support in nearby venues, particularly within the State of Delaware;
- contribute to spreading archaeological information to the public through regular public meetings, lectures, exhibits, and use of news media, as well as maintaining the organization's website;
- provide opportunities for its amateur members to experience archaeology in the field and in the laboratory;
- encourage the efforts of state archaeologists and other professional archaeologists in Sussex County by offering assistance and publicizing the importance of their work.
